PLAY A ROLE IN HARVARD'S FUTURE

Join the HEDC Today

The Harvard Economic Development Corporation (HEDC) exists to help businesses of all sizes succeed in Harvard. We're leading the way to promote the economic interests of the Harvard community, its employers and residents by working to create a pro-business climate, attract new investment and development to town, work with schools and employers to develop a well-trained workforce and make sure that existing Harvard companies have access to the information and support that they need to expand locally.

The HEDC depends on the support and participation of business and community leaders, elected officials, educators and Harvard residents. Our Board of Directors includes leaders from throughout the community. Our membership is varied and growing. We'd like to count you among our future-focused members.

MEMBERSHIP BENEFITS INCLUDE:

- Leadership in the community;
- Attend Member-only events;
- Receive updates on local development and issues;
- Receive latest updates on Harvard-Woodstock Enterprise Zone;
- Company listing in Member Directory on our global website;
- List property in Land and Sites database;

You'll Be In Good Company

Membership in the HEDC demonstrates leadership and a commitment to ensuring the best possible future for the Harvard community. As a member, you will have preferred access to HEDC-sponsored resources and events, and an opportunity to network with other business and community leaders. Together, we will lead the way in our community.

Members are also eligible to list commercial/industrial property in the HEDC's online Land & Sites database and developer e-newsletter. Properties must be owned or represented by the member, located within or adjacent to the Harvard city limits and be ready or suitable for commercial or industrial (including retail) development.
